Diamondhead district buys sewerage system

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Diamondhead Utility District has purchased the Diamondhead Utilities sewerage system for $150,000.

The system will retain the name Diamondhead Utilities and will continue to be operated by the seller, Peter J. Casano, under a cooperative agreement with the district.

Casano said he plans to turn the operation over to the district "after they get on their feet."

Interviewed by telephone on Friday, he stated that the sale cannot be completed until it is approved by the Mississippi Public Service Commission, but he expects no opposition to that approval.

Casano had originally said he did not plan to sell either the water or sewerage system to the district, partially due to a difference of opinion with Daniel

Smith, a member of the district's board of commissioners.

"Quite frankly, the problems I had were with Mr. Smith and it appears to me that after he resigned, things ran more smoothly," Casano said.

"I'll do anything I can to help them," he added.

He said he sold the system to the district for "a nominal fee" in the interest of the community because he wanted to speed up the process of obtaining and funding a new wastewater treatment plant.

"We feel we got a bargain compared to going with eminent domain and fighting it through the courts," said Commission Chairman Dick Nolan, who explained that formal negotiations began about eight weeks ago.

"We're happy about it. I just hope the community is as happy as we are."

Nolan said the commission is dealing with the State Bureau of Pollution Control regarding a three-percent loan to build a new sewage treatment facility.

The treatment facility will be located on the north side of Interstate 10 in the southwest section of Diamondhead.

Nolan said the beginning of construction is about a year away.

"We have some public meetings coming up to tell people about it and explain what we plan to do," Nolan said.

The first one is scheduled Friday, Jan. 19 at 7 p.m. at Diamondhead Community Center. A second meeting will be at 10 a.m. Feb. 12 in the same location.

Casano said that he plans to negotiate with the district later regarding the water system that forms the rest of Diamondhead Utilities.

BayTech zoning change was correct, judge rules

BY D.C. HARVILL

After more than a two year wait, Circuit Court Judge Kosta Vlahos ruled Wednesday that the City of Bay St. Louis had acted appropriately in creating a special use district for property on St. Charles Street owned by Bay Technical Associates.

"We are all very pleased about it," said City Attorney John Scafide.

According to Scafide, the court's decision was based on a matter of law which says the court is not justified in overturning a decision made by a local government unless it acted improperly in making the decision.

The judge said he found enough evidence in the case to support the city's decision, Scafide said.

The city had granted the special use classification for the 20-acre plot in late 1987 so Bay Tech could construct a facility to house their computer equipment manufacturing operation, currently based in the former Jitney-Jungle building on Second Street.

The city's decision at that time was met by opposition from residents of the neighborhood surrounding the site of the proposed "high tech park" who argued that the two-story structure and activities associated with its operation would detract from the neighborhood's character. Four of the residents, Curtis Matherne, Mark Boston, Milton Townsend and Bert Taylor, filed a class action suit against the city hoping to have the city's decision overturned.

The appellants have 45 days in which to appeal the judge's decision. If an appeal is not filed within the specified period, the property owner may proceed with the intended construction.

"I feel the city made the correct decision in the first place. It's good to see the judge confirm it," said State Senator Victor Franckiewicz Jr., Bay St. Louis' mayor when the city's decision was made.

According to restrictions placed on the property under the special use classification, construction must begin on the property within one year of the case clearing the courts.

As of Friday afternoon the appellants had not decided if they would take their opposition to a higher court.

"We will get together and discuss whether we will take it to the (state) supreme court," said Townsend, whose driveway backs up to Bay Tech's property.

"I have been a real estate appraiser and I know the effects of commercial business on residential property. It is creeping commercialism regardless of what they say," Townsend said.

Bay Tech owner Chuck Ramsey said his original intention was to locate an 80,000 square foot, two-story building on the site.

The operation, which was housed solely in the Second Street facility at the time of the zoning request, would have been moved to the first floor of the structure with the second floor reserved for expansion.

Since filing for the zoning change, Bay Tech has added to its Second Street facility and purchased two other buildings in Bay St. Louis to meet its needs, including the old post office on Main Street.

"The expansion and the two buildings have taken away some of the need. We are introducing two new products this year; whether we build on the property depends on how well they do. We aren't going to try to make a decision (with regard to construction) until we know what the opponents are going to do," Ramsey said.

Local officers to form McGruff Houses in area

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

McGruff Houses will come to Hancock County for the fall school term.

The program will be co-sponsored by the Hancock County Sheriff's office and the Police Departments of Bay St. Louis and Waveland in cooperation with Coast Electric Power Association.

Don Oco, Bay St. Louis crime prevention officer said, "This will be a cooperative program among the three local law enforcement agencies and trained citizen volunteers."

"A McGruff House is a place where children can turn to for help in all types of situations they may face in the community," Oco added.

"A McGruff House is a temporary haven for a child who finds himself in an emergency or frightening situation, such as being bullied, harassed, chased by an unleashed dog, followed by a stranger, or hurt while walking in a neighborhood," Oco said.

A McGruff House will be a place which has been volunteered by the owner and has been thoroughly checked by local law officers.

Each house owner will be trained to handle various situations and will be kept abreast of the telephone numbers for law enforcement departments and emergency services in his area.

Oco emphasized, "A McGruff House will not be a medical aid station, a restaurant or a public restroom."

Each designated house will display a McGruff symbol, the trench coated 'spokesdog' for crime prevention.

A national program being implemented in every state, the McGruff program has built-in safeguards against abuses. While no system is foolproof, the McGruff House program provides every possible precaution to ensure the safety of

Supervisors request bill

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has agreed to support efforts to get a local and private bill that would help support the Wildlife Rehabilitation and Nature Preservation Society (WRANPS).

The society presently is supported by donations only, according to Robin Berry, director of the WRANPS center for injured and orphaned animals near Pass Christian.

She and WRANPS President Marilyn McQueary have approached the supervisors for assistance before, but were unable to obtain any because no legal authority could be found for the contribution.

According to Board Attorney Lucien Gex, county boards of supervisors may only contribute to the organizations specifically authorized by law.

In effect, a contribution to WRANPS could only be provided under a local and private bill authorizing the counties served by the organization to help provide funding for a non-profit group.

Berry said WRANPS is based on the Gulf Coast because the

Quick action quells Diamondhead fire

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

The saving of an apartment complex in Diamondhead late Saturday was attributed to quick and appropriate response by firefighters.

Fire Chief Dennis Westbrook said, "When firefighters arrived at the scene, it looked as if all the apartments in one complex were on fire, as smoke was pouring from the attic."

"The top apartments of the 12 apartment two-story complex all share the same attic," Westbrook added.

At press time firefighters were in the process of ventilating the attic in order to assess the damages and determine the fires cause, the chief reported.

The apartment where the fire originated appeared to have had heavy heat damage, according to Westbrook, while others may have sustained smoke damages.

"I am really proud of the fine job firefighters did in containing the fire, they did what they had to do in order to stop it," Westbrook emphasized.

Diamondhead's Fire Department had two pumper units with three paid and ten volunteer firefighters at the scene, in addition to two volunteers at the station.

Card of Thanks

Mrs. Mary Lewis and grandson Travis of 523 State Street, Bay St. Louis, and family wish to thank their many loving friends, the pastors and entire church memberships of both First Missionary Baptist Church of Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian, employees at Bay Tech Associates, Man-Power, and the J.T. Hall Funeral Home for the many kindnesses shown during the illness and passing of our daughter-mother, the late Mrs. Gaynell Lewis Richard.

Some months ago, we discussed the ten commandments of human relations. Although those ten do remain basic commandments of human relations, further reflection has revealed that there are also secondary commandments of human relations. Allow me to walk you through an additional listing of human relations imperatives.

1. Do not make excuses for yourself, except in those rare instances where people expect you to explain why you were deficient. Making excuses for yourself, especially in trivial things, puts you in a bad light and is invariably annoying to other people.

2. Do make excuses for other people. It breeds in you a healthy tolerance for others, and it suppresses the shameful inclination of most humans to rejoice in the misdeeds, the failures and the misfortunes of others. It also converts enemies into friends.

3. Do not praise yourself, not even indirectly. Self-praise is invariably in bad taste, and it invites others to consider you a vain glory-hound. It always frustrates what you are aiming at, since it turns people away from giving credit were credit is due.

4. Do praise others whenever you can do so without flattering, coloring the facts, or lying. To give sincere praise is to do what most people need most: to affirm them, to uplift them, to nurture their self-worth, to help them feel worthwhile.

5. Do not build conversations around your own interests and agenda. That is a sure turn-off for other people, for they are certain to view you as a bore, as selfish, as conceited and, more than likely, as arrogant.

6. Do build conversations around the interests and agenda of others. That is the surest way of holding the attention and the goodwill of others, for you will thus be a continuous joy and interest to others. Then, one day life will truly click for you, when the interests of others become fully your own interests.

7. Do not give unsolicited advice, except where extraordinary good or extraordinary harm hangs in the balance, or where it is clear that someone seeks advice but is afraid to ask for it. As we are told, "The wise don't need; fools don't heed it."

8. Do listen carefully to all advice, even that which seems frivolous or stupid. You will win anyone over who sees that you think enough of her/him to pay attention to her/his opinions. It is also our daily experience that we can learn from anybody.

9. Do not dump your problems on others, unless it is crystal clear that they are willing to entertain your woes. Even among the well-disposed, there are very few people who want to be burdened with the hurts, sorrows and misfortunes of others. If people refuse to hear you, you will feel much worse than before.

10. Do show patience, compassion and openness toward those who dump on you in the throes of depression, pain, neglect, abuse, addiction or deprivation. You will witness much more than the relief and healing of those who approach you. You will experience a great soothing, healing and satisfaction also in yourself.

11. Do not entertain rumors or gossip of any kind. Otherwise, you give others the signal that, in their absence, you are willing to listen to negative things about them as well. Further, you would encourage the gossip to carry on.

12. Do squelch rumors and gossip, and spread all the good news which you hear or read. You will thus benefit yourself and all.

'Shucks, folks. Didn't the Master say all this? Isn't it all contained in the sermon on the Mountain, Matthew 5 and following?

Public hearing set on 'no wake' ordinance

BY DENA BISNETTE
 A public hearing will be held at 7 p.m. Wednesday at the Hancock County Courthouse to discuss a proposed "no wake" ordinance for a section of Diamondhead.

According to Beat Three Supervisor Lisa Coward, the area being discussed is in Paradise Bayou, leading into Diamondhead's marina.

The "No Wake" ordinance is a safety measure requested by residents of the area who were concerned about boats entering and leaving the marina, she added.

The ordinance is to be enforced by Bureau of Marine Resources. It was originally considered as an alternative to a speed limit, which the bureau has no authority to create or enforce.

ST. ANN CHURCH NEWS

A thought for meditation from our pastor Father Justin Furman, ST.

A deplorable and well known moral weakness causes us to judge things much less by our own reason than by that of others. This is one of the greatest hindrances to grace in our hearts. A conception of duty and rights is formed, not according to principles, but according to the example of those around us. Truth known, is sacrificed to public and clamorous error, and so the ideas of men find more respect than those of God. Their judgement is preferred to His. Remorse of conscience is appeased by saying we think as everyone acts.

Task force nets four with cocaine

BY DENA BISNETTE

Four Bay St. Louis residents were arrested on drug charges after cocaine was found in their vehicle during a routine traffic stop.

When Hancock County Sheriff's Deputy Terry Roberson stopped the car on US-90 just west of Waveland at about 7 p.m. Wednesday, he "noticed a strange, familiar odor," said Glen Strong, a Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator who also serves as head of the recently formed multi-jurisdictional narcotics task force that includes Waveland, Bay St. Louis and Hancock County.

Roberson notified the task force and agents searched the car, said Strong.

Arrested were Charles E. Celestin, 34, of 420 Washington St., Bay St. Louis; Nadine Brown Callahan, 45, and Tommy Lee Callahan, both of 703 Shieldsboro Drive, Bay St. Louis; and Yvette Lee, 711 Shieldsboro Drive.

All four were charged with one count each of possession of a controlled substance with intent to distribute.

They were jailed on $10,000 bond each.

Authorities confiscated 15 packs of crack cocaine and one pack of powdered cocaine.

Task force Agent James Varnell is in charge of the investigation. He was assisted at the scene by Strong and Agent Gus Aime.

The task force is now routinely called regarding all drug violations in the county, whether the patrol unit which discovers them is from one of the police departments or the sheriff's office, Strong stated.

Cases are then assigned to individual task force agents for investigation.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

This is the time of year when many Americans begin to wonder how much they will owe, or have refunded on federal and state taxes.

I have always tried to pay enough tax during the year to avoid having to pay up on April 15.

I always hate to have to get the materials together for tax reports, yet it is something I have to do each year.

We seem to always have to pay some sort of taxes, no matter what we do.

On the other hand, without taxes our governing bodies would be without funding.

Taxes have been around for many centuries as tax collectors are even mentioned in the Bible.

On January 9, 1990 The Sea Coast Echo began its 99th year of publication.

The first weekly issue of the Echo came off the press on Jan. 9, 1892, which is a long time ago.

When one begins to count the number of issues of The Sea Coast Echo which have been printed, the number is very high.

During publication of the Echo, I have been involved in over one-third of its issues.

Over the years, only two issues of the paper have been missed, one in 1918 when the publisher's daughter died of the plague and the week of Hurricane Camille in 1969.

You will be hearing a lot more about the area's history during our Centennial year.

Have you noticed how the days are getting longer as we move to mid-January.

Myself, I like those longer and warmer days when one can work outdoors in the flower or vegetable gardens.

Last spring I only planted a few red potatoes, but, this year I hope to plant a few more items.

I leave the flower planting to my wife, Jane.

There just is something extra about a tomato, pepper, potato, or squash when it is picked fresh from your own garden.

I hope to get my potatoes in about the middle of next month, even though I will probably have to cover them a few times because of frost.

I save my pecan tree leaves to cover the plants whenever a frost threatens. This will work as long as the temperatures do not drop too much.

Good luck to all of those who plan on planting a garden this spring.

To fight crime in Philly, people plant posies.

"The bad part of town" Abandoned cars. Sidewalks scattered with crack vials. Bombed-out buildings. A neighborhood whose spirit is as broken as the bits of glass that dot the street. There are only two things to do if your neighborhood becomes a war zone: give up or take action.

The Philadelphia Story One day, in the "bad part" of Philadelphia, a neighbor complained to a neighbor. And then to another. And then to more. People didn't like their homes being "taken over." Feelings of helplessness and resentment turned to action.

They went to the police for help. Soon a substation was established where folks could readily report crime. Weekly meetings began. Community watches started. Things started getting fixed up. Vacant lots were cleaned up and fenced off. Abandoned cars were towed away. Painting and repairing programs began.

The neighborhood was cleaning itself up. The local 4-H Club even helped set up garden clubs where kids, teens and adults could work together on plants and flowers while talking over ways to raise awareness.

When people care and get involved, neighborhoods change. When a block doesn't look like a haven for crime and drugs, it won't be. And in this part of Philly, where once only apathy grew, seven gardens now bloom.

This is only one success story of many. To find out what can be done in your neighborhood, write: The McGruff Files, 1 Prevention Way, Washington, D.C. 20539-0001. And help...

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Human Services Department thanks generous public

To the Editor: The Hancock County Department of Human Services wishes to express their deep appreciation to all the individuals and organizations who so generously gave of their time and money to make Christmas 1989 a wonderful and joyous time for needy children in Hancock County.

Because of these caring people, children who would not have had their dreams of Christmas fulfilled were awakened on Christmas morning to the happiness only children can feel when wishes have been granted.

For all the children who will never know of your individual effort and from all the staff whose job was made a little easier and brighter, we wish to say thank you.

Sincerely yours,

Expectant mothers should investigate delivery procedures

Dear Editor: When people celebrate the New Year we often use the newborn babe to symbolize our hopes for the coming year. My wishes for 1990 include the hope that newborns will get a better deal here on the Coast and in the U.S. in general.

Doctors seem to have plenty of motives to perform C-sections and routinely administer drugs and other invasive therapies during a woman's labor.

Most shocking is the recent national news story of the doctor who used forceps to speed the delivery of our nation's first New Year's baby of 1990, solely in order to clock in at midnight. Only Father Time will tell us if that child's spinal cord has been unnecessarily injured.

My wish for 1990 is that people reading this letter who are expecting a child this year will take the time to educate yourselves about hospital routines for labor, your doctor's attitudes towards them, and most importantly, their possible side effects.

Anyone wishing more information may attend a meeting of Gulf Coast Childbirth Awareness Education and Research (CARE) at Garden Park Hospital on the third Friday of every month.

Sincerely,
Judith McCall

Still Hunters' Association urges legislators to change deer season

Dear Editor, On Monday, Jan. 8, the House Game & Fish Committee held a hearing at which the Property Rights Association was allowed to express its views. The press billed the meeting as an opportunity for property owners to voice their concerns about roadhunting.

While the Mississippi Property Rights Association favors passage of a good roadhunting law, the basis for their organization is deer dog trespassing. The practice of roadhunting is a means by which deer dog hunters can trespass their dogs on property where they are not wanted. The roadhunting aspect seems to attract the most attention because it is the most visible. Indeed, even ABS's 20-20 program will soon feature the problem of roadhunting in Mississippi. The core of the problem is deer dogs running across property where they are unwelcome.

It is the issue of deer dog trespassing that must be resolved

HOUSEKEEPING

From the Mississippi House of Representatives

House task force recommends Agricultural Strategic Planning

The establishment of a Legislative Agricultural Strategic Planning Institute was recommended by a House of Representatives Task Force in a move to develop greater coordination of agricultural programs in state government and place renewed emphasis on Mississippi's agricultural and agribusiness industry.

The proposal was described as a "visionary blue print for Mississippi agriculture" by Representative Steve Holland of Plantersville. Holland is chairman of the House Task Force on Agricultural Planning, Processing and Development.

The recommendation follows a series of hearings and meetings held by the eight-member task force since its appointment March 10 by House Speaker Tim Ford.

The speaker commended the committee for its work and gave his personal endorsement to the recommendation. "It will give more focus to our agricultural industry," Ford said.

Holland said legislation would be introduced in the 1990 session to implement the recommendation which calls for:

—The creation of an Agricultural Strategic Planning Institute consisting of five House members and five Senate members, including the chairman and vice chairman of the Agriculture Committees in both chambers, the chairmen of the two Appropriations Subcommittees for Agriculture, and two members from each chamber appointed by the House speaker and lieutenant governor.

—The establishment of an Interagency Council for Agribusiness Development consisting of the State Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce and top officials of various state agencies and institutions dealing with agriculture. The Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce would serve as chairman of the Interagency Council.

Others on the Interagency Council would include the executive directors of the Department of Economic and Community Development; Department of Environmental Quality; Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks; State Forestry Commission; Soil and Water Conservation Commission; Agricultural Strategic Planning Institute; Commissioner of Higher Learning; vice president for Agriculture, Forestry and Veterinary Medicine at Mississippi State University; and director of Agriculture, Research, Extension and Applied Sciences at Alcorn State University.

The Strategic Planning Institute would plan agribusiness development activities, develop new agribusiness proposals, and develop short-term and long-term planning activities for agribusiness development throughout all regions of the state.

The Institute would be requested to prepare a short-term and comprehensive long-term agribusiness plan by Dec. 15, 1990 to be presented to the Legislature and the governor.

In addition, it would make recommendations regarding the funding of programs, assignment of program functions, elimination and consolidation of duplicative programs, and creation of an Office of Agribusiness Development within state government.

"We are never going to solve all the problems in agriculture. But we feel what we're recommending is a major start toward a brighter future for agriculture in the 21st Century. We believe it is a solid recommendation," Holland said.

The recommendation received a generally favorable initial response from representatives of the affected agencies and institutions, who were given a summary of the proposal.

In addition to Holland, the members of the Task Force include Representatives Robert J. (Bobby) Moody of Louisville, vice chairman; Mark Scarborough of Florence, secretary; Jimmy Green of Itta Bena; Clayton Henderson of Tunica; Curtis Holston of Poplarville; Billy McCoy of Rienzi; and Jim Simpson of Long Beach.

Holland also serves as chairman of the House Agriculture Committee.

Mississippi poised to begin next decade and century

Mississippi is poised to begin not only a new decade, but the next century.

To succeed, we must get a headstart on the future and the only way we can do that is by drastically changing how we teach our children. We must completely renovate, restructure and reinvent education in our state.

We are not alone in our thinking. After last year's Presidential Summit on Education, every state in the nation began looking toward tomorrow. They are planning to catch their stride on the next generation of education reform by making meaningful and massive changes in their educational systems.

Next month, Washington will do what we've already accomplished. They will release a set of national goals for education, identifying where those changes need to be made.

Mississippi is ahead of the curve in this regard. Last August, we identified what we believe are the most important issues facing our children. And in October, 1989, Mississippi's BEST—Better Education for Success Tomorrow—outlined more than 30 specific programs that we must enact to reach our goals.

Following the Summit on Education, President George Bush said: "The American people are ready for radical reform. We must not disappoint them."

I echo his words. We must not disappoint the people of Mississippi.

If we act now, we will be able to lead the nation. If we don't we will lag even further behind. And if we fail this time, Mississippi may never be able to catch up.

In 1982, Mississippi led the nation with our first Education Reform Act. In the first year after the Act was passed, we raised $99 million in new taxes. But the Education Reform Act itself cost only $41 million. That means that 60 percent of the money went somewhere else.

In the six full years since the Act has been in place, the taxes raised in December, 1982 have brought in more than one billion dollars. But the cost of the Act has been $482 million. More than $534 million raised in the name of the first Education Reform Act has been spent on other things. And that figure represents more than the entire three-year cost of Mississippi's BEST.

Education has been used to fund other things. And yet when an education program is proposed, the first thing you hear is: "Where is the new funding source for it?"

This time, let's make education our priority. Let's also allow the people a right to vote on funding for the program. We must make sure that every dol-

Some swaps have good results, like a trade for a new attitude

One of the more controversial subjects in Mississippi lately has been the proposed land swap involving Camp Shelby, the Leaf River Management Area of DeSoto National Forest and some property in Colorado.

Because a reporter shouldn't express personal opinions on a story he's covering, I'm not going to say what I think about this land swap. You can find my official words on that, which are basically just some background material and what other people are saying about it, on a different page.

However, I am familiar with swaps and there are some other things I would like to see traded.

I would like to trade some of our trees down here for some of the trees I've seen in other parts of the country. Ours are green or brown, depending on the season; the trees for which I'd swap are the kinds that put on the color show every fall.

How about setting up a trade with Arizona? I'd be happy to give them three or four or even five of our 99 percent humidity August days for one reasonably dry day of any temperature below 80 degrees.

I wouldn't trade the colors of the water in the Gulf for anything. They're fantastic in range and absolutely beautiful. But, can we arrange to trade off some of our dirty water for some clean water?

I heard a disc jockey say on the radio last week that you can tell natives from tourists in the summer because the tourists are the ones out swimming. He wasn't kidding.

What about something like growing rice? It's surely hot enough and wet enough around here, and it might work if the soil is right. Besides, that weather exchange with Arizona isn't going to be that easy to set up.

Maybe, to give the state's press a little fun, we should have a gubernatorial exchange. We can swap Governor Ray Mabus for former Louisiana Governor Edwin Edwards for a week or two.

Just kidding, folks. But, I do have to admit that if I've ever found an interesting politician I never got to write about, Edwards is on top of the list.

I know some of the other trades aren't even possible, but I'd still love to see the results. We can't trade for weather and trees, but we can work on some of the other things for results similar to a trade. We can have better beaches, more jobs and an improved image only through years of hard work.

There's still a swap we need to make—it's for a new attitude. The attitude which says "Let someone else do it" or "I can't help" just won't do.

While changing the world may seem to be an overwhelming project for the average person, changing a community is within everyone's scope. He can do it in little ways like picking up the litter along the sidewalk in front of his house or in big ways like opening a new business to supply jobs.

It's time for an attitude which says "I'll do it."

Now that's a good swap.

How about swapping Mississippi's image with the rest of the nation, which is basically the antebellum cities in the Delta or poverty and ignorance, for an image more like what the state really is? I think that idea would draw some applause.

Maybe we could trade for the negative image for one like the one I saw representing Mississippi on a South Central Bell billing insert recently. It showed little people for each state and Mississippi was represented by a person wearing a graduation robe and cap and carrying a diploma.

I'd trade our tiny beaches here in Hancock County for the prettier, larger ones I see elsewhere, but I'm afraid it would end up being a bad trade. There would have to be some negotiations, because the beaches would be nice to have, but are we sure we want the crowds?

Here's a good trade—let's swap Highway 603 for the scenic national parkway section of the Natchez Trace. That would certainly change local driving habits. I consistently hear two things about that parkway: people remark on its beauty first, then on the strict law enforcement there.

What else should we trade for? Without trading off our small-town comforts, could we find a way to get some more jobs around here?

The high-tech things are fine because they're environmentally clean, but what is really needed is jobs local people could get, and the high-tech type of education just isn't that prevalent here.

Bay man remains critical after wreck

BY DENA BISNETTE

A Bay St. Louis man remains in the intensive care unit of Oschner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans following a motorcycle accident that left him in critical condition.

The injured man, Bernie J. Piazza, 39, was traveling east on the Earhart Expressway in Metairie when the accident occurred Tuesday night. According to his brother, Alan Piazza, he was on his way home from work.

A Louisiana State Police trooper who is investigating the accident said Bernie Piazza's 1979 Harley Davidson hit a concrete traffic barrier at more than 80 m.p.h. after the driver tried unsuccessfully to negotiate a curve on the overpass at Shrewsbury Road.

Piazza was thrown more than 500 feet to the base of the overpass.

Alan Piazza said Saturday morning that his brother had not yet regained consciousness but that he had been told his condition has stabilized and that he seemed to be aware of people talking to him.

In addition to multiple fractures of a hand and foot, Bernie Piazza suffered head injuries.

He was wearing a helmet when the accident occurred.

No other vehicles were involved, but the expressway's eastbound lanes had to be closed for about an hour and a half while emergency personnel worked at the scene of the crash.

center is here and provides public education programs in addition to caring for animals and birds.

She said the requests for funding the society will present to the individual counties will be based on the number of animals brought to the center. Hancock County's portion will be relatively low because fewer animals are brought from here to the center.

Some of the funds will also be used for a new project, research. One of the first areas being addressed is the mortality rate among the brown pelicans during the recent, severe freeze. Birds thought to have been killed by low temperatures were found to have liver damage, but the exact cause is not yet known.

The board approved a resolution requesting the bill and will forward it to local legislators.

The board's meeting Monday has been moved to 9 a.m. Tuesday because the courthouse will be closed for the Martin Luther King's Birthday holiday.

or there will continue to be increasing turmoil among the users of our deer resources.

The Property Rights Association and the Mississippi Stillhunters' Association will not simply fold tent with the passage of a roadhunting bill. An equitable adjustment in the deer hunting days is a must. The ire of stillhunters and property owners will continue to grow if the Legislature does not make the appropriate changes in the deer season.

The Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks has recommended, among other things, the following season framework:

1. Establish deer season on a minimum of a four-year cycle.
2. Restrict the total length of all firearms deer seasons to 64 days (now 61).
3. Establish a baseline number of days in the deer season as follows:
 - a. Dog hunting days 33 (now 39).
 - b. Still hunting days 20 (now 8).
 - c. Primitive weapons 11 days (now 14).
 - d. Archery 48 days (no change).

Passage of a four-year season in the absence of the above changes in the days set aside for still hunters will create turmoil much greater than exists today.

The Mississippi Stillhunters' Association is working to unite the stillhunters of Mississippi to bring sufficient pressure to force favorable legislation. Persons interested in information should write to Mississippi

Stillhunters' Association, 196 Dogwood Place, Jackson, MS 39208.

Sincerely,
Fred White, President

American Cancer Society

The American Cancer Society will bring a touch of spring to the Bay-Waveland area the first week in March 1990 when it holds Daffodil Day.

This fund-raising event will bring the first flower of spring to friends, neighbors, customers and employees.

The key to the success of this event is the contribution from the local business community. The Hancock County Unit of the American Cancer Society will deliver the flowers to offices, homes or wherever one chooses to receive the daffodils.

Many companies purchase the flowers and ask that they be placed in the local hospital, the nearest nursing or private facility, or to a church or school group.

The minimum order is one case (50 cut flowers per case). A contribution of $150 per case will help fund cancer research, general health programs and numerous services for patients.

Diamondhead AARP

Diamondhead AARP 4228 began the New Year discussing the topic of health care. Marie Wise of Memorial Hospital in Gulfport informed the members of the many senior services offered to the community by the hospital.

Among them are 'Life Line,' an emergency response system, 'Brighter Days for Golden Years,' 'Good as Gold,' and 'Senior Plan.' Further information is available from Ms. Wise at Memorial Hospital.

In order to encourage participation in the community, all the undertakings for the coming year were presented. Most notably are 'Project Grandpa,' which allows one to work with children from four to six years of age who come from single-parent families and the '55 Alive' program, which will be starting soon in Bay St. Louis. Completion of this program besides improving one's driving habits results in a discount on the auto insurance premium.

Milt Parmiter spoke on the 'Help Thy Neighbor' program which, if initiated, would be beneficial to all in the community.

Committee changes announced were as follows: new chairman of the recycling committee is Margaret Grace; new chairman of the Diamondhead Water and Sewer District committee is Dick Nolan. This committee will have an informative meeting later in January.

Work on the Fitness Trail is proceeding. Approval of the use of the land between the two entrances to the Country Club has been obtained. Food Pantry, the practice of donating canned food items or cash, is ongoing and all members are urged to continue their support.

Membership now stands at 203 and all are encouraged to take part in the many and varied activities of the AARP chapter.

Plans are being discussed for a theatre party trip. Also mentioned was the AARP convention to be held in Orlando, Fla. in June, which will have many varied, interesting and well-known speakers.

Harrison-Hancock County Right to Life

By Kevin L. Kirby

Happy New Year. We are praying that your New Year will be blessed and happy. We are also looking forward to some great successes in the life vs. death war.

At our next meeting on Jan. 15 at 7 p.m. at the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce, we will outline and finalize plans for the two pro-life rallies in January. One is to be held in Jackson, the other in Gulfport. We will also discuss and plan possible lobbying activities at the Capitol in Jackson.

This seems to be a time when our nation is focusing on the importance of education. This is certainly a vital issue to the pro-life cause. The truth is though, that many colleges and universities are encouraging and even supporting pro-abortion organizations.

I want to take this opportunity to encourage you all to be in touch with the deans and board members of our educational institutions. Please don't be misled into passivity just because you have no children in college. These people will make up the backbone of our government and voting population in just ten years. Write to these campuses and express your public opinion.

Finally, as the New Year arrives so does the need for funds to pay for our pro-life advertisements, professional fees, meeting space rental, postage, etc. Please make out your 1990 dues check today. Yearly dues are $20. Ten dollars remains with the local chapter, five goes to the state chapter, and five goes to the national chapter. This donation is essential to the continued growth and strength of the Right to Life movement. Please make checks payable to: Harrison-Hancock County Chapter Right to Life, c/o #1 Palmer Place, Gulfport, MS 39507.

SHOPPING UP A STORM

By Katy McGuire
Caire

You needn't pass up those special savings on large eggs at Jitney Jungle just now for fear of the cholesterol problem, not according to the good news from authoritative sources!

Latest news from the USDA (U.S. Food and Drug Administration) tells us that we may eat three or four eggs a week, they're not such cholesterol culprits after all and have as low a fat content as any protein food. So let's mix up this ever-so-easy brunch or supper dish:

EASY CHEESE BAKE

6 slices whole wheat bread, cubed
4 eggs
2 cups skim milk
1 tsp. dry mustard
1 tsp. dried basil
1/2 tsp. dried marjoram
6 ounces light-fat cheddar cheese, shredded

Place bread in a non-stick-spray-coated 9-inch square baking dish. In a large bowl, whisk together the eggs, milk, mustard, basil and marjoram, and pour over the bread cubes. Sprinkle with the cheese.

At this point, you may cover the casserole and refrigerate overnight, and just pop the casserole into the oven when family or guests arrive. At any rate, refrigerate for awhile at least. When ready, bake, uncovered at 325 degrees for 45 minutes or so, or until eggs are set. (Four to six servings.)—from Prevention magazine recipes.

I sometimes add chopped ham or shrimp or crabmeat to this.

And, still thinking along healthful lines, as we all know, chicken is a healthful food with so many ways to prepare it; so stop by the chicken displays and start cooking! Winn-Dixie offers specials on "Lots O' Chicken," assorted pieces, and also on boneless chicken breasts for that special meal.

National offers specials on chicken, drumsticks, thighs and wings—the latter is my favorite part of the chicken, especially:

GOURMET CHICKEN CHASSEUR

Cut off and discard the wing tips from two pounds of chicken wings, and pat the wings dry with paper towels. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and dredge lightly in flour, then saute in two tablespoons of butter and one of olive oil in a skillet over moderately high heat, turning as needed, for 5 minutes, or until they are browned. Transfer with a slotted spoon to a dish.

In the fat remaining in the pan, saute 1/2 cup chopped green onion, 2 tablespoons minced onion, and a minced garlic clove, until the onion is softened. Add 1/4 lb. mushrooms, sliced, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1/2 teaspoon thyme, along with pepper and salt to taste. Saute mixture for 5 minutes, then add 1/2 cup dry white wine and cook the mixture over high heat until the liquid is reduced by half.

Return the wings to the pan, and add 3/4 cup chicken stock or broth and 1/2 cup peeled, seeded and chopped tomato. Bring liquid to a boil, reduce heat to moderately low, and cook, covered, for 20 minutes. Cook uncovered for 10 minutes more or until wings are tender. Sprinkle dish with minced parsley, and serve with rice. (3 or 4 servings.)—from Gourmet magazine recipes.

And, with today's leaner pork, with less fat trimmings, we can indulge in delicious pork dishes. So you might want to take home some of the quarterloin (sliced) from Jitney Jungle or Delchamps, or some of the boneless chops from National (5-lb. limit on the latter, please).

I like to bed pork chops down on thinly sliced cabbage, onions and apples, and braise them. Or I brush chops with yogurt (plain yogurt which I have seasoned with pumpkin spice or cinnamon or other sort of spice, and bake atop sliced sweet potatoes—try it!

And, with the specials on canned vegetables now in swing at Jitney Jungle and Winn-Dixie, I'm making up several batches of spaghetti sauce (from the canned tomatoes and tomato sauce on sale) and also using canned corn on sale, I'll cook:

SPANISH RICE SKILLET

1 cup mild salsa
1 medium bell (green) pepper, coarsely chopped, approximately 1/2 cup
1/2 cup hot water
1 cup quick-cooking rice
1 can (8 oz.) whole kernel corn, drained
1/2 cup shredded cheddar cheese (half of a four-oz. pkg.)

Stir salsa, bell pepper and water together in a medium skillet, and bring to boiling. Stir in the rice and drained corn, and sprinkle the cheese over. Cover, remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes. That's all there is to it. (Four servings).

And, don't pass up the California green leaf lettuce at Jitney Jungle or the iceberg lettuce at Winn-Dixie, and mix up a good green salad!

Spicy gingerbread waffles revive fragrant memories

A whiff of the sweet-spicy aroma of gingerbread can bring back warm, tasty memories of childhood. Gingerbread waffles are no exception. As they bake, their fragrant aroma lures taste buds into anticipation. One bite and you'll feel young at heart!

This home-style recipe uses beaten egg whites to help leaven the batter. Avoid over-mixing, which may prevent the waffles from rising properly.

Adjust the amount of batter and cooking time to suit the size and temperament of your waffle baker.

Gingerbread waffles are best served hot, with your favorite toppers (including such indulgences as flavored butter, whipped cream or ice cream).

If you must keep waffles warm, place in a single layer on a rack in a 250 F. oven. Don't stack, as they will become soggy. Refrigerate leftover waffle batter or bake and freeze individual waffles.

ers' sugar, butter, syrup, preserves, apple sauce, whipped cream or ice cream, optional.

In large bowl, stir together flour, baking powder, cinnamon, ginger and cloves. Set aside.

In large mixing bowl, beat egg whites with cream of tartar at high speed until stiff but not dry, just until whites no longer slip when bowl is tilted.

In medium bowl, beat together egg yolks, milk, brown sugar and molasses until thoroughly blended. Make a well in dry ingredients. Pour in yolk mixture. Stir just until moistened. (Batter will be lumpy.) Gently, but thoroughly, fold mixture into whites.

For each waffle, pour about 2 cups batter onto preheated, greased waffle baker. Bake as directed until steaming stops.

and lid lifts without resistance, about 5 minutes. Serve hot with fresh fruit slices, confectioners' sugar, etc., as desired.

There's only one way to come out ahead of the pack.

Did you ever think when you cut into that steak about all the work that's gone on before it reaches you?

First of all, it's government inspected before we accept it. And only when it meets our rigid standards do we accept it.

Then we cut it right. Lean Trim. Simply stated, Lean Trim means we cut it to 1/4 inch on the outside. We take away more of the fat so you get less calories and more meat for your food dollar.

You could say that Lean Trim is our way of making your special cut of beef, veal and pork a great deal more special. And more delicious. More meat and value without the added cost and calories.

Knight- Chiniche

Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis was the setting for the December 22, double-ring ceremony uniting in marriage Michelle Marie Chiniche and Douglas Elston Knight III. The Reverend Pete Mockler officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Chiniche of Bay St. Louis.

The groom is the son of Ms. Martha C. Knight of Hattiesburg and Douglas E. Knight Jr. of Atlanta.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white bridal satin and Schiffler lace. The fitted bodice featured a scalloped V-neckline, enhanced with iridescent sequins and seed pearls.

The back bodice also featured a scalloped V-neckline with satin covered buttons. The skirt swept from an elongated waistline to form a scalloped cathedral train accented with baby ruffles and schiffler lace cutouts.

The headpiece of seed pearls, rhinestones and silk flowers formed a V-band in front and a pouf of illusion at the back, sprinkled with rhinestones. It held a two-tiered fingertip veil, outlined in pearls.

She carried a cascade of silk organza roses interspersed with forget-me-nots and pearl sprays, accented with lace and iridescent ribbons and streamers.

The bridesmaids wore tea-length gowns of midnight blue velvet and iridescent taffeta fashioned with sweetheart bodice, lantern sleeves and full skirts accented in back with a candy box bow. They carried peach poinsettias circling a glass globe with a peach candle.

The matron of honor was Hope C. Kergosien of Bay St. Louis. Maids were Jami P. Chiniche, Laura Taylor of Orlando, Fla.; Brooke Hollifield of Laurel, Jackie Sotak of Bay St. Louis and Matalie Sandoz of Long Beach.

Serving the groom as best man was Perry Knight of Hattiesburg. Groomsmen were Pat Kergosien, Jody Compretta, Jason Chiniche, all of Bay St. Louis; Barry Clarke of Hattiesburg and Mike Necaise of Gulfport.

Music was provided by organist Ollie McKenna of Bay St. Louis with vocal accompaniment by Mary and April Hollifield of Laurel.

A reception was held in the American Legion Hall in Bay St. Louis.

Following a wedding trip to Disney World, the couple resides in Hattiesburg.

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS KNIGHT III

Bates- Legge

Louise Marie Legge and Charles Curtis Bates, both of Bay St. Louis, exchanged wedding vows January 20.

The bride is a daughter of Margarita de Anda and Harlan Paul Legge, both of Dallas, Texas. Mr. Bates is the son of Elizabeth Antonia Medina and Eloy Bates of Bay St. Louis.

Mensa to administer IQ tests

The local chapter of Mensa will provide a qualified proctor to administer IQ tests for eligibility to Mensa USA. Two tests will be given at each session. A score placement in the top two percent in either test will qualify for Mensa membership.

Tests will be sent to the New York office where they will be evaluated by a qualified psychologist. The test scores are strictly confidential and will be mailed only to the individual taking the test. The scores will indicate the percent of the population your test results place you in.

Testing sites will be in Gulfport, Bay St. Louis and Picayune. Cost for testing is presently $20, subject to change. Testing of private groups and in other locations is also available. For more information about testing for Mensa call Roy Burkart at 467-4262 or write to Rt. 2, Box 460, Bay St. Louis, MS 39520.

Navy headquarters gets new building

After more than a decade of being scattered in three separate buildings at the Stennis Space Center, the Commander, Naval Oceanography Command and staff have a new home. Rear Admiral James E. Koehr moved his flag to a new headquarters building at the space center in December.

Ground had been broken for the 15,000 square foot building in July, 1988. The contract to build the $1.6 million facility was awarded to the TAC Construction Co. Inc. of Jackson. It was designed by the architectural firm of Cooke, Douglass and Farr Ltd., also of Jackson.

The new building will be formally dedicated at a ceremony on March 30. It is the only active Navy flag headquarters in Mississippi.

Koehr heads a worldwide organization comprising some 3,000 officers, enlisted and civilian personnel at 65 locations.

Two of its field activities, the Naval Oceanographic Office and the Naval Oceanography Command Facility Bay St. Louis, are also located at the Stennis Space Center. Another Mississippi location is a detachment at the Naval Air Station Meridian. The Naval Oceanography Command provides oceanographic, meteorological and mapping, charting and geodetic services to the Navy.
